Hello Dear Joshua J & Sunnyo Buck Mission
Fund.

Board members
Greetings from Kathmandu.

By the grace of God, my family and our church family are doing fine, and I am deeply thankful for His protection over us. I pray that you and your loved ones are well too.

I believe by now you have seen and heard about the situation in Nepal through social media and the news. Still, my heart felt that I should share with you personally.

Right now, Nepal is witnessing a powerful and emotional uprising—what many are calling a Gen-Z movement against corruption and injustice in the government. It's largely driven by the younger generation who are tired of broken promises, deep-rooted corruption, and the lack of accountability among those in power. Their voices are rising with passion, demanding change, transparency, and a better future.

Sadly, this movement has not come without cost. Many lives have already been lost. Protests have turned intense. While it's inspiring to see young people take a stand, it's also painful to see the price being paid. And though such movements may bring political change—new leaders, new constitution, new laws—history has shown us that without a change in the hearts and minds of people, true transformation doesn't last.

That's why my ultimate hope is not in politics, but in the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Only the Gospel has the power to bring real, lasting change—restoring lives, healing hearts, and transforming nations from the inside out.

So I come to you as a brother and friend, asking for your prayers. Please pray with us—not just for government reform or justice, but for a spiritual awakening in Nepal. Pray for this new generation, that their passion would lead them not only to protest but to discover purpose and hope in Christ. Pray for peace in the streets, healing for grieving families, and boldness for the Church to be a light in this dark moment.

“May this moment be different. Not just a political turning point, but the beginning of a new direction for Nepal. May it open hearts and prepare the way for the Gospel to reach the people of this nation.”

With love and hope in Christ,
Pastor Mitra Dangol
